STREET DRUM & TRUMPET CORPS 1993 - PRESENT

In 1993 the "Old" Street Boy's Brigade band reformed to parade at their old base, The Methodist Church in Street, for the 70th birthday of their Bandmaster, the late "Drummer" Hayes.

That parade generated sufficient interest for the band to reform, raise the necessary funds and with the help of The Street Parish Council and others, the band had purchased new instruments to play at various local events, concerts, fetes etc.

After a slow start and 23 years of practice the Band now consists of some of the original team as well as qualified musicians and members of other regional bands. As in many recent years our aim has always been to enjoy ourselves, hopefully get others to enjoy themselves and to raise money to be able to help and assist many local, and sometimes major charities.

We usually nominate two or three charities per year that will receive a percentage share of what we have raised over the year and I'm really pleased to say that, to date, we have raised and donated the grand sum of £12800.00.

We are always trying to get hold of new members and would welcome any person who felt that they could, or would like to, play a musical instrument and use that talent to assist those others in need.
